SPITEFUL BREWING
AWFULLY GOOD.

IT ALL STARTED LIKE THIS...

Brad Shaffer and Jason Klein decided to start a brewery in 2010 because they tired of drinking garbage beer.

In search of a better version of the elixir of life, they decided to not use their debt-filled and four-years-wasted degrees (five for Jason) to find “real jobs.” At least that’s what Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer said.

And now, those wasted nights “testing” different brews didn’t go to waste. What started as a small brewery in Chicago has expanded into select stores across the country. Take that, corporate America! We hope to share the Spiteful lifestyle with you.

DRINK OUR BEER.
OTHERWISE, SCREW YOU.

Minnie the Moocher

It's the same story every time you see her: she shows up carrying nothing but a fierce appetite for food and booze and a remarkable way of panhandling her way into all of the party's festivities. We've crammed twice the Mosaic hops into this double IPA to help relieve the pain felt by all of those in her path. We also suggest camouflaging this beer in the back of the fridge. A head of lettuce makes a nice deterrent.

Chatty Cathy IPA

You don't care about her belt buckle opinion on politics and you certainly don't want to hear about her boyfriend's erectile dysfunction at the ripe age of 29. You try to walk away, but she just follows. "I'm oversharing again, aren't I?" she says before beginning another monologue. The irony is as deafening as her gymnasium voice. Tune her out with our El Dorado IPA with a hint of wheat and a tropical aroma.
